Stanton Group announces the sale of it's Cerwin Vega Mobile division to CVM Acquisition Services

CVM Acquires Legacy Cerwin-Vega Mobile brand -- a perfect compliment to it's selling channel

HOLLYWOOD, FLA. – July 2nd, 2007 – The Stanton Group, a leading audio equipment company operating Stanton Magnetics, Cerwin Vega!, and KRK Systems, announced the sale of the Cerwin Vega's Mobile Division to CVM Acquisition Services, a sister company to Diamond Audio Technologies, LLC.

The sale of our Cerwin-Vega Mobile Audio division to CVM is a great fit for one of mobile audio's legacy brands, says Timothy Dorwart, Stanton Group CEO. "CVM is very passionate about this business and I have total confidence that they will continue the tradition of excellence we have been able to create with the Cerwin Vega name."

Cerwin Vega began designing world-class car audio speakers as far back as the 1950s and is one of the most well renowned worldwide brand names with distribution in over 75 countries. The Cerwin Vega name first gained notoriety by designing state-of-the-art subwoofers, including the legendary Stroker Technology, which established a new gold standard for subwoofers.

"We are pleased to reach a deal which enables us to acquire one of the most revered names in mobile audio," says Mike Morris, President of CVM. "Combining our history of designing and manufacturing the finest car audio components with Cerwin Vega's outstanding brand legacy allows us to deliver even more value and performance to our customers."
